Specification

The examiner has not checked the specification to the extent necessary to determine the presence of all possible minor errors (grammatical, typographical and idiomatic). Cooperation of the applicant(s) is requested in correcting any errors of which applicant(s) may become aware of in the specification, in the claims and in any future amendment(s) that applicant(s) may file.

Applicant(s) is also requested to complete the status of any copending applications referred to in the specification by their Attorney Docket Number or Application Serial Number, if any.

The status of the parent application(s) and/or any other application(s) cross-referenced to this application, if any, should be updated in a timely manner.

The specification is objected to because it lacks a brief description of the drawing.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112/101

Claims 41, 42 and 55 provide for the use of a composition but, since the claim does not set forth any steps involved in the method/process, it is unclear what method/process applicant is intending to encompass. A claim is indefinite where it merely recites a use without any active, positive steps delimiting how this use is actually practiced.

Art Unit: 1755

Claims 41, 42 and 55 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed recitation of a use, without setting forth any steps involved in the process, results in an improper definition of a process, i.e., results in a claim which is not a proper process claim under 35 U.S.C. 101. See for example Ex parte Dunki, 153 USPQ 678 (Bd.App. 1967) and Clinical Products, Ltd. v. Brenner, 255 F. Supp. 131, 149 USPQ 475 (D.D.C. 1966).

These claims are therefore non-statutory and have not been further treated on the merits. In the event they are properly rewritten, they may be withdrawn from consideration as directed to a non-elected invention and the finality of any office action will be maintained since applicants have already had an action on the merits for the remaining claims.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.

Art Unit: 1755

4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 35-40 and 43-49 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over EP 0,636,597.

The instantly claimed invention involves a process for the catalytic metathesis of Fischer-Tropsch olefins (including mono-methyl branched olefins) under appropriate conditions.

EP 0,636,597 discloses a process for the disproportion of an n-olefin feed under pressure and temperatures above 300C, substantially as claimed herein by applicants. The disclosure of polyisobutene raffinate would contain branched olefins, and the prior art metatheses feedstocks are also well known to contain such component. See, for example, the Schwab references.

The only significant difference between the EP document and the instantly claimed process would appear to be the designation by applicants of an F-T olefin feedstock.

Art Unit: 1755

However, the instantly claimed process would have been obvious because it will not differ significantly in scope from the process of EP 0,636,597. Since the reference teaches a mixed feedstock containing higher olefins, clearly there is little substantive difference between the feeds of the two processes. Moreover, integration of processes is well within the skill of the artisan for cost benefits. See particularly page 3.

Regarding the recycle feature of claim 43, the examiner fails to see the significance of this limitation. It is notoriously well known in hydrocarbon conversion reactions to recycle to promote production of desired product.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 50-54 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over EP0,056,013.

These claims recite a composition produced by the metathesis process. The examiner takes the position that the processes are so closely related that the product produced thereby will of necessity be the same or so similar to have been obvious. It is well settled that when the product of a process is virtually indistinguishable from the prior art product, it is proper for the examiner to shift the burden to the applicants to demonstrate any patentable distinctions.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Applicants are advised that any evidence to be provided under 37 CFR 1.131 or 1.132 and any amendments to the claims and specification should be submitted prior to final rejection to be considered timely. It is anticipated that the next office action will be a final rejection.

Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Elizabeth D. Wood whose telephone number is 571-272-1377. The examiner can normally be reached on M-F, 5:30-2:00.
